Student art exhibit winners announced

Submitted story

The Memorial Health Care System announced the winners of the newly established Art of Caring Student Art Exhibit.

The Art of Caring Student Art Exhibit allows Memorial the opportunity to not only connect with and celebrate student artists and their families but also helps to create a stimulating visual environment. The exhibit displays artwork from students in each grade level in Memorial's primary service area. These pieces will remain on display in the Main Lobby of Memorial Hospital until January 2010 when a second group of students have been chosen.

All art work is submitted by teachers and not accepted on an individual basis. Upon having the artwork displayed each child will receive their artwork along with a custom mat, nameplate and a certificate of achievement.

The winners of the competition are as follows:

Jason Brooker, Fremont Ross High School, 12th grade; A.J. Russell, Fremont Middle School, seventh grade; Abbey Strausbaugh, Lakota Central Elementary, fourth grade; Alexis Quinones, South Main Elementary, first grade; Brennan Rostetter, Washington Elementary, fifth grade; McKatlyn Garcia, St. Ann School, eighth grade; Alyssa Halbisen, St. Ann School, sixth grade; Kaitlyn Cantu, Margaretta Elementary, fourth grade; Regan Draeger, Woodmore Elementary, first grade; Scott Lamson, St. Joseph Central Catholic, 11th grade.

The following students received honorable mention:

Megan Wonderly, Fremont Ross High School; Caleb Costeilla, Fremont Middle School; Becky Fredrick, St. Joseph Central Catholic High School.
