Teaming Up for Science Tests

The students at Stamm Elementary worked very hard preparing for the OAA tests this year. The fourth and fifth grade science classes teamed up to make their studying a little more exciting. Even though the fourth graders don't take a Science OAA this year, the fifth graders were helping to prepare them for next year. Students were given practice tests with extended response questions, which require them to site evidence from a given passage. The fifth grade students were able to be the "teacher" and show the fourth graders what makes a quality two-point or four-point answer. Not only did it help the fourth graders improve their answers, but the fifth graders were also able to review and refresh their skills as well. Submitted by: Patti Huskey. ## Hayes Students Learn Fab Four

At Hayes Elementary, the Intervention Specialists, Title One teacher and selected grade level teachers team up to learn and implement comprehension strategies from nationally recognized literacy coach Lori D. Oczkus. These strategies are referred to as Reciprocal Teaching, and revolve around the complex comprehension thought process of making predictions, asking questions, using clarifying strategies and summarizing reading selections. The "Fab Four" have been flexible and fun to implement and can be used in the primary and intermediate curriculum during whole group lessons, guided reading groups, literature circles, center activities and individual assignments. Some of these strategies incorporate lessons that allow students to use dance gestures, role play/theatrical roles, comprehension webs and game pieces to extend the comprehension thought process as they practice scaffolding, metacognition, cooperative learning and think-alouds through social interaction. Students who have participated in Reciprocal Teaching "Fab Four" Strategies have shown growth in their learning and are having tons of fun! ## Atkinson Students Initiate Bully-Free Program

Some of the third graders at Atkinson have been showing excellent character by starting an anti-bullying club. Third grade students, Erin McMullen and Carol Grob, approached Mrs. Unger, the school counselor, earlier in the year, wanting to start a club called Help Stop Bullying. The purpose of the club is to make Atkinson a bully-free school by learning about bullying and ways to stop it. The club meets weekly at recess and is open to any third grader who is interested. Since the club has started, members have made anti-bullying posters to hang around the school, reminding everyone how they can help stop bullying. The students worked together and authored a bully-free pledge that included input from all group members. The 3rd graders also spent time reading and discussing books about bullying, including Say Something and The Juice Box Bully. Club members can use their recess time to discuss problems and help each other work to solve them. These students have been showing and promoting good character! ## Reciprocal Teaching at Lutz

The first grade classes at Lutz are focusing on all of the positive things that are happening in their classrooms and rewarding those behaviors. Each student has a clip with their name on it. At the beginning of each day, their clip starts in the green - "ready to learn" position on the behavior chart. They have the ability to move up three different colored spaces to the top for awesome behavior throughout the day. Each afternoon the students color the date on the calendar to match where their clip ended that day, so their parents are able to keep track of how their child is doing at school, as well.

When the student is on "ready to learn" or above (good day, great day, outstanding), they receive a punch on their behavior punch card. Once the student has filled their card with ten punches, they redeem their card for a coupon from the "Best Behavior Prize Coupon Book." These coupons include rewards such as: no homework, take off your shoes for the day, bring in a stuffed animal, sit with a friend at lunch, jump in line anywhere, extra computer time, use the super-duper supplies and one of the class favorites - lunch with the teacher.

So far this year, over 400 coupons have been redeemed in the Lutz first grade. Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. McAfee enjoy rewarding the students for being safe, respectful and responsible throughout the day.

Art inspires Character at Washington

In the art room, there is nothing a student truly does alone. We work in teams to gather supplies, share resources, clean up, discuss and do many more things. With a team comes accountability and trust. Students are constantly building their reputation of trustworthiness in class. Each team trusts that the others will do their jobs and prepare the team for success in each project. Each student is trusted to listen to instructions because a mistake in mixing could affect the whole table's artwork. Yet with all this responsibility and room for error, I trust that my students will show compassion to those who make mistakes. I trust that my students are there to help one another, and above all, I trust my students so that they may in turn trust me. Submitted by: Bradley Scherzer Elementary Art Teacher

Football Tickets

The start of another season of Little Giant football is quickly approaching. In order to provide the best fan experience for all, the following changes have been made for all varsity football contests and will go into effect this 2013 season:

-General Admission Tickets: The $6.00 general admission tickets will only be sold at the Stamm entrance. Reserve tickets and student tickets can be purchased from either the Miller Street or Haynes Street entrances.

-Admission: Middle school students will no longer be permitted to enter the game without an accompanying adult. High School students will need to produce a school issued identification card in order to enter the contest without parental supervision. High school students who fail to bring their ID cards and FMS/elementary students who are not accompanied by a parent will not be granted access to the game.

-Student Section: Middle school students will no longer be permitted to sit in the student section as was the practice in previous years. Only students in grades 9-12 along with members of the Ross High School marching band will be permitted to sit in the student section. Middle school students who attend the athletic contest should sit with their parents.

-2 minute rule: The rule which limited when students could leave the students section during the course of the event will no longer be enforced. Students who are seated in the student section of the stadium will be given the freedom to use the restroom or visit the concession stand at their discretion. If this practice is either abused or leads to further incident, it will be revoked.

As with every decision we make, these changes have been made in order to provide the safest and most favorable environment for both students and fans. We thank you in advance for your continued support of our football program and our many student-athletes.

Croghan Family Fun Night

Oh, what a night! Croghan School recently held their annual Family Fun Night on April 12th. The halls, classrooms and gymnasium were bustling with fun and laughter as students and their families made their way to the various activities of the evening. Events included a Chinese auction featuring donations from Northwest Ohio businesses, cakewalk, face painting, Bingo, duck pond, penny toss game, tic tac toe toss, fishing game and lots of singing in the Karaoke room! There were basket raffles, which included great themed items such as an Ohio State themed basket with many Ohio State items. First grader, Jelissa Sims, was excited about her mother winning the Baker's Basket! Many stayed for dinner enjoying hot dogs, chili dogs, pulled pork, sloppy joes, chips, and desserts.

Emma Lynch said, "I liked the Karaoke, and I got a cupcake painted on my face!"

When asked about her favorite activity of the evening, Jazanay Ayers replied, "I liked the Karaoke, the cakewalk, the penny toss, and the fishing game!" Croghan School would like to thank all the businesses who donated items and the middle school and high school students who helped to make this evening a success. ## Making a Difference on Earth Day

They can really clean-up! The Make a Difference Clubs at both Ross and FMS have not only been making a difference at their schools and in their communities, but now they are helping the Earth.

In celebration of Earth Day, the Make a Difference clubs joined Dr. McCaudy, Mrs. Opelt, Don Nalley and the boy scouts to clean-up the Christy Farm Nature Preserve on April 20th.

David and Eleni Albrechta came up with this fabulous project and asked FCS to team up with them. The students not only helped pick-up the trash, but they learned valuable lessons about sorting and recycling the materials. Several students found deer and rodent skulls and bones that they were able to take back to their science classrooms for their teachers. One young man even discovered a deer antler that was given to the Preserve to display. Students were also able to take home a seedling to plant. Pictured above: Seirra Stansberry

Poster Contest at FMS

In honor of the Fort Stephenson Bicentennial, 6th and 7th grade students from the Middle School entered a poster contest. The posters needed to depict a person, place or thing that was related to the Battle of Fort Stephenson. The Battle happened in Fremont in August of 1813. Several students submitted posters to this contest, which will be judged on creativity, originality, historical accuracy, and artistic merit. All did excellent jobs! There will be one winner and two honorable mentions in each grade. Good luck students!! Shown is Matt Dupey's entry.
