

November 1, 2008

Voice of the People

Schools needs levy

I encourage voters in the Fremont School District to vote for the school levy.

Rarely does a community have the opportunity to move its schools forward at such small cost.

We should take the opportunity Tuesday to think about the future and provide a state-of-the-art facility for the education of our children.

The cost to taxpayers for this new construction will save more money than the cost of maintaining the old high school/middle school building.

Vote for the school levy to save us all money.

Vote for the school levy to make education more efficient in this community.

Vote for the school levy to do all we can for this community's children.

Please vote yes on the school district levy.

-- Joseph F. Albrechta

Fremont

Vote yes for levy

I am writing to express my heartfelt support for the Fremont City Schools' Bond Levy. We have an opportunity to provide a safe, updated facility for our middle school students that should not be missed. If we do not take advantage of the opportunity the state has given us for matching funds to do this project now, in a few short years we will be required to build a new school, and we will be responsible for the entire cost of the building at a price that is certain to be higher than we would pay now.

I have gotten the impression in the past few years that the behavior issues that have plagued the middle school in the past have been reduced significantly. I no longer hear people express concern about sending their children there, as I used to. I think a new facility will allow the excellent staff at the middle school to give our students the ability to make the transition from childhood to adolescence as smooth as possible and enhance their learning process --which is most important in the middle school years.

I urge you to vote yes for the Fremont City Schools' Bond Levy. Our children deserve our support.

Sandra Berlekamp

Fremont
